An Example of the CS Slides Class

Martin Reddy

January 24, 1997

Title Slide

This page contains notes for the title slide

Introduction

This is an example of the csslides class style which can be used to design presentations in the Computer Science department at the University of Edinburgh.

It offers a number of facilities, including:

- landscape or portrait slides (with mixing in one document)
- a notes generation facility
- a selection of large sans serif font sizes
- a consist layout with the University crest
- a customisable footer section
- several environments for theorems, proofs, etc.

Conclusion

That's All Folks!